Over the next month you will experience normal reactions to the kind of experience you’ve had which may include:

Physical Reactions
- Fatigue
- Nightmares
- Insomnia (which may turn into hyperactivity)
- Exhaustion
- Startle Reactions
- Health problems (such as a change in appetite, headache, digestive problems)

Cognitive Reactions
- Difficulty with concentration
- Difficulty making decisions
- Difficulty solving problems
- Memory disturbance
- Flashbacks
- Isolating
- Inability to attach importance to anything other than this incident

Emotional Reactions
- Fear
- Anxiety
- Guilt
- Depression
- Emotional numbing
- Feelings of helplessness
- Over-sensitivity
- Amnesia for the event
- Anger
  - Scapegoating, irritability, frustration with bureaucracy, violent fantasies

These are normal reactions, and although painful, are part of the healing process. There’s not a lot anyone can do to make you not experience these uncomfortable feelings but there are things you can do to feel more whole.

Things to try:
- Within the first 24-48 hours periods of strenuous physical exercise alternated with relaxation will alleviate some of the physical reactions. Structure your time – keep busy.
- You’re normal and having normal reactions – don’t label yourself crazy.
- Talk to people – talk is the most healing medicine.
- Be aware of numbing the pain with overuse of drugs or alcohol; you don’t need to complicate this with a substance abuse problem.
- Reach out – people do care.
- Keep your lives as normal as possible.
- Spend time with others.
- Help your co-workers as much as possible by sharing feelings and checking out how they’re doing.
- Give yourself permission to feel rotten and share your feelings with others.
- Keep a journal; write your way through those sleepless hours.
- Do things that feel good to you.
- Realize those around you are under stress.
- The Nutrition Almanac recommends supplementing your diet with Vitamin C, Vitamin B2, Vitamin B6, Calcium and Magnesium.
- Don’t make any big life changes.
- Do make as many daily decisions as possible which will give you a feeling of control over your life, i.e. if someone asks you what you want to eat – answer them even if you’re not sure.
