

Hello all! A few highlights from our week to share with you today!

Centers A big thank you to Angie Roth for her help during our center time! This is by far the most chaotic part of the day. I so appreciate having an extra pair of hands and eyes during this time!! Thank you to Linda Riddle as well for her continued help :)

Guest Reader I am very bummed to have missed Dondee Eberhart the other week, but the kids sure enjoyed having her come in to read- thank you! This week, we hosted our first ever kindergartener guest reader...Julianna! I cannot take any credit here- she took initiative here and asked if she could be our reader on her birthday on Tuesday. It was so heartwarming to see her get up in front of the entire class to share her awesome reading! Great job, Jules!

Save the Date We have scheduled our spring field trip for the morning of Thursday, May 17th. More details to come!

Sight Words I cannot find the last words that I updated you with, so please excuse me in advance if I am repeating myself. However, the most recent words we have focused on in class are you, one, are, and have. Thank you for continuing to reinforce these at home!

Valentine's Day Every morning, we begin our day with our Morning Meeting, which includes a "share-out" time. On Wednesday, in celebration of Valentine's Day, we each shared something or someone that we love. Here's what your sweet kiddos said :)

C.B.- Maddox, Bentley, Judd, and Georgia

Yearbook Photos I was talking to a parent just the other day- it sounds like the PTO could really use some help with photos for the yearbook! If you have not done so, I encourage you to check out HJEShare.com and upload any photos you have taken of your child/peers to be featured in the school yearbook! I have attached a digital version of the flyer sent home that has further instructions. Thank you in advance!!
