Important Info

- We will be working on oi and oy words this week! We will also be reviewing ir,er,ur,or,ar, and ow,ou!

- There will be no reading log for the month of May.

-All library books need to be turned in by this Friday! Please help your child find any library books that may be lost. We will start sending home notices of what books are still out in a couple of weeks.

-You will start to see some booklets come home soon. Please look through them before you throw them out. Some of them may have quite a few empty pages that could be good to keep for this summer ☺.

Tech of the Week

Freckle is our math website that we have been using all year long. This website AND app is definitely one you want to remember for this summer! I will continue to assign assignments this summer to help the kids stay active in their math skills. To log in, they just need to type their first name, last name, and then our class code which is: 6f2y2y .

A good goal would be to have your child work on this at least twice a week this summer! I will give you a reading website for this summer soon!

Challenges of the Week

Math Challenge of the Week: Have your child create a bar graph based on which is liked better: dogs or cats. They can go around and ask family members in their house and then record the data they got!
For more of a challenge, have your child create their own poll to ask family members!

Here is an example:

Reading Challenge of the Week: Have your child challenge themselves to read 10 books this week and record the title of each one!

Writing Challenge of the Week: We recently got with Kindergartners and talked about 1st grade. Have your child write how they can be a good role model for younger students!
